TEENAGERS are the next target for Primrose Hill fundraisers in their bid to save Chalk Farm library.

The campaign, spearheaded by the Friends of Chalk Farm library and the Primrose Hill Community Association, has astonished many by raising upwards of £350,000 in just over a month.

But campaigners need a further £800,000 to secure the library's future.

Now, as well as raising money, they are getting youngsters involved through a go-karting trip.

Tickets for the event, on February 5 in Letchworth, are already being subsidised by Teamworks Karting and John Shepherd of Shepherd's Food, while businesses such as LEMONIA, The Queen's Pub and Ready Steady Go will also be sponsoring at least 15 tickets for schoolchildren to take part for free.
